

Bali Volcano Eruption, Indonesia

14 November 2024

Information:

Indonesia's Mount Lewotobi Laki Laki volcano started to erupt in early November 2024, resulting in an ash cloud that has drifted across Indonesia. This has cancelled flights in and out of Denpasar.

As a general guide, we suggest that impacted travellers check their travel insurance Policy Wording regarding cancellation, travel delay, missed connection/additional travel expenses and curtailment, as these will provide useful assistance around the cover under your policy.

Your policy provides a number of benefits, conditions, limits, sub-limits and exclusions that may be relevant to your travel plans. Your cover will depend on the type of plan you purchased and your circumstances. We will assess all claims in accordance with your Policy Wording and your Certificate of Insurance. Your policy will only respond to this event if you are directly impacted. There is no cover as a result of deciding not to travel where you are not directly impacted.

If you entered into a policy before 12.00 am (NZT) Wednesday 13th November, 2024.

If you are currently travelling:

It is always our priority to assist our customers where possible and within our ability to do so. If you are currently travelling, the following sections of your Policy Wording will provide guidance around the cover your policy provides:

- Cancellation if your flight is delayed, cancelled or rescheduled and this causes you to miss your pre-paid travel arrangements, you may be able to claim for the non-refundable portion of your pre-paid travel expenses as per the limits and conditions outlined in your Policy Wording.
- Additional expenses if your journey is disrupted as a result of Indonesia's volcanic eruption, you may be able to claim the cost of your necessary and reasonable additional travel and accommodation expenses. Cover may extend to include meals depending on the limits outlined in your Policy Wording.
- Terms, conditions, limits, sub-limits and exclusions apply under your policy. For the full details, you should refer to the Policy Wording and Certificate of Insurance you received when you purchased your travel insurance.

If you have not yet departed:

- If your pre-booked travel arrangements are cancelled, delayed or rescheduled because of Indonesia's volcanic eruption, you may be able to make a claim for rearrangement of your journey. Please refer to your Policy Wording for the terms, conditions, limits, sub-limits and exclusions that apply.
- If your travel arrangements have been affected, contact your travel agent or travel provider regarding the best option in altering your trip. Some travel providers may provide penalty free options to amend travel arrangements and they should be able to provide further details.

What next steps should you take?

- You should try to minimise your expenses including rearranging your journey where possible. If you have been using, for example, two-star accommodation on your trip to date, then any replacement accommodation should be of a similar standard.
- Keep all receipts for any additional transport, food or accommodation expenses. If you are claiming cancellation or additional expenses you will need to submit documents showing what your original planned pre-paid arrangements were, along with any receipts and documents showing your new

If you entered into a policy after 12.00 am (NZT) Wednesday 13th November, 2024:

We would expect that this was done with an awareness of Indonesia's volcanic eruption. For these policies, we will not pay any claim caused by or in any way connected with this event. Our policies do not cover claims for losses caused by something that you or a reasonable person in your circumstances would have been aware of at the time of purchasing your policy.
